To Make Harness Last Longer.

A little economy, which sometimes means a good many dollars to a man, is the proper care of harness, carriage etc. Leather in daily use, exposed as it is to sun and wind, soon becomes dry, bard, inelastic, and unable to stand strain. Then, very likely at the most unfortunate moment, a break occurs, and precious time and money are lost. All this is easily prevented by a little forethought and care on the part of the owner. Every one owning rses should be supplied with a good leather preservative, and a good axle oil. These two things are necessary to the largest economical use of a working outfit, or a pleasure equipage.

Observation has shown that no oil penetrates leather so deeply, and resists the drying effect of sun and wind so well as Eureka Harness Oil.

Neatsfoot and some other inferior oils sometimes used, easily become rancid, or because of containing acid, hurt the leather. Stable men and others posted on the subject, invariably use Eureka Harness Oil. When harness is given an occasional dressing of this oil, and wagon spindles greased with Boston Coach Oil, a very large reduction is pade in the necessary repair bills. Boston Coach Oil, by the way, is very much superior to Castor Oil. It has much superior to Castor Oil. splendid lasting qualities, will not gum or corrode, and is more economical in Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 30 .- By the wrecking of a three coach train on the West Jersey & Seashore Railroad Sunday afternoon at least 50 passengers perished and the list may reach the total of 75 when all is known. While crossing the drawbridge spanning the waterway known as the "Thorough-fare," which separates Atlantic City-from the mainland, the train left the tracks and plunged into the water. The passengers in the first coaches, with one or two exceptions, ed about the scarcity of farm hands drowned. Twenty-five bodies have been recovered, and it is expected that at least 25 and possibly 50 more bodies still are in the submerged

The accident was witnessed by many persons on shore, and assistance was promptly sent from Atlantic City Little could be done, however, toward saving the lives of those imprisoned in the submerged coaches. The water at the point where the train plunged in was not deep enough to cover the coaches at first, but as they settled in the mud and as the tide rose they were soon gone from sight.

Late in the evening a wrecking crew arrived, and with their aid and with the use of a derrick, a dozen or more bodies were taken out and brought to this city. Of the 25 bodies about 20 have been identified and it is believed that no difficulty will be experienced
